INTRODUCTION

R. L. POLK & CO., publishers of more than 750 city, county, state and national Directories, present to subscribers and the general public, this, the 1949 edition of the South Bend City Directory, which also includes Mishawaka. A new feature, the Manufacturers' Department, marks this edition.

Confidence in the continued growth of South Bend's industry, population and wealth, and in the advancement of its civic and social activities, will be maintained as sections of this Directory are consulted, for the Directory is a mirror truly reflecting South Bend to the world.

The enviable position occupied by R. L. POLK & CO.'S Directories in the estimation of the public throughout the country, has been established by rendering the best in Directory service. With an unrivaled organization, and having had the courteous and hearty cooperation of the business and professional men and residents, the publishers feel that the result of their labors will meet with the approval of every user, and that the South Bend Directory will fulfill its mission as a source of authentic information pertaining to the city.

Five Major Departments

The five major departments are arranged in the following order:—

THE MISCELLANEOUS DEPARTMENT, pages 13 to 23, on white paper, presents lists of city, county and federal officials; post office Directory; statistical review; historical sketch; and manufacturing, trade and civic surveys.

THE ALPHABETICAL LIST OF NAMES of residents and business and professional concerns is included in pages 25 to 860, on white paper. This is the only record in existence that aims to show the name, marital status, occupation and address of each adult resident of South Bend, and the name, official personnel, nature and address of each firm and corporation in the city.

THE DIRECTORY OF HOUSEHOLDERS, INCLUDING STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE, on pink paper, covers pages 861 to 1037. In this section the names of the streets are arranged in alphabetical order; the numbers of the residences and business concerns are arranged in numerical order under the name of each street, and the names of the householders and concerns are placed opposite the numbers. The names of the intersecting streets appear at their respective crossing points on each street. Special features of this section are the designation of tenant-owned homes and the designation of homes and places of business having telephones.

THE BUYERS' GUIDE, preceding the Classified and separately paged from 1 to 92, on goldenrod paper, contains the advertisements of leading manufacturing, business and professional interests of South Bend. The advertisements are indexed under headings descriptive of the business represented. This is reference advertising at its best, and merits a survey by all buyers eager to familiarize themselves with sources of supply. In a large commercial and industrial center like South Bend, the necessity of having this kind of information immediately available, is obvious. General appreciation of this fact is evidenced by the many reference users of this City Directory service.

THE CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY is included in pages 1143 to 1216, on white paper. This department lists the names of all business and professional concerns in alphabetical order under appropriate headings. This feature constitutes an invaluable and indispensable catalog of the numerous interests of the community. The Directory is the common intermediary between buyer and seller. As such it plays an important part in the daily activities of the commercial and professional world. More buyers and sellers meet through the Classified Business Directory than through any other medium. A new feature of this section is the Manufacturers' Department.

Municipal Publicity

The Directory reflects the achievements and ambitions of the city, depicting in unbiased terms what it has to offer as a place of residence, as a business location, as a manufacturing site and as an educational center. To broadcast this information, the publishers have placed copies of this issue of the Directory in Directory Libraries, where they are readily available for free public reference, and serve as perpetual and reliable advertisements of South Bend.

The South Bend Directory Library

Through the courtesy of the publishers of the South Bend City Directory, a Directory Library is maintained in the offices of the Association of Commerce of South Bend, for free reference by the general public. This is one of more than 600 Directory Libraries installed in the chief cities of the U. S. and Canada by members of the Association of North American Directory Publishers, under whose supervision the system is operated.

The publishers appreciatively acknowledge the recognition by those progressive business and professional men who have demonstrated their confidence in the City Directory as an advertising medium, with assurance that it will bring a commensurate return.

History and Development of South Bend

South Bend and environs occupy land which was the scene of dramatic events in the romantic history of America's earliest westward expansion. Here more than two and one-half centuries ago the intrepid French explorer, Robert Rene Cavalier Sieur de LaSalle, landed his party on the banks of the St. Joseph River. He was making that perilous journey by water up the St. Lawrence, through the Great Lakes, by portage across the divide into tributaries of the "Father of Waters," the Mississippi. LaSalle's portage across the divide in 1679 took him across what is now Riverview Cemetery, through the kingdom of the Miami Indians to the Kankakee River.

Two years later, on this same site under the spreading branches of a great oak tree, LaSalle held his history-making council with the Indian chiefs, leading to the Miami treaties. Council Oak, a grizzled veteran of those centuries, still stands in Highland Cemetery, a magnificent memento to days of courage and adventure. These interesting and romantic sites are appropriately marked by monument and bronze tablet.

It was nearly a century and a half later—in 1823—when Alexis Coquillard founded on the banks of the St. Joseph, a short distance south of the LaSalle portage landing, a fur-trading post which was to become the modern metropolis of South Bend. At that time this was still Indian territory, although three years previously had seen the arrival of Pierre Navarre, the first white settler. His cabin stood on the north side of the river, near what is now the Michigan Street bridge.

Then, in 1842, Very Rev. Edward Sorin, C.S.C., and six Catholic brothers, held a council with the Indians, after which was established the University of Notre Dame. In 1844 the Mother House of the Sisters of the Holy Cross was opened at Bertrand, Mich., and in 1855 this was moved to what is now Holy Cross, Ind., just opposite the Notre Dame University. Today St. Mary's College of Notre Dame enjoys one of the top listings in girls' schools, and the St. Mary's Convent is known the world over. The community, the university, the college and the convent together have grown through the century. The name of the settlement originally was Southhold, later changed to South Bend, as fitting its site on the bend of the picturesque river.

The population of South Bend has been enlarged steadily through the years, perhaps the most concrete of all the tributes to a progressive citizenship and the many natural advantages of the city's location. From 128 in 1830, seven years after its founding, South Bend's population grew to 1,652 in 1850; to 35,999 at the turn of the century; to 101,268 in 1940. With the community shouldering a large share of the nation's World War II production effort, the influx of workers and their families raised the permanent population to an estimated 123,446 in 1948. This City Directory is proof that South Bend, true to its heritage of virile progress, still marches forward.

Cultural Advantages of South Bend

Most famous of South Bend's educational institutions is the University of Notre Dame. It attracts more than 5,000 students a year, besides 300,000 visitors, to its 1,250-acre campus. Nearby St. Mary's Academy and College occupies in its field the same excellent position as the university.

There are four public senior high schools in South Bend, and two parochial high schools; eight public junior high schools; eight public elementary schools, and twelve parochial elementary schools.

The South Bend Public Library was founded in 1888, and its present main building was built in 1896. There is an annual circulation of approximately 600,000 books among its 28,856 borrowers, from the 150,665 volumes. There are 481 current magazines and 20 current newspapers received each month. In addition to the main library building, there are five branches and a business and industrial library. The main library is open to the public from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. for 303 days in the year.

The South Bend Symphony Orchestra is known as one of the outstanding symphonies of the country for communities of South Bend's size. Organized in 1932, it has brought many leading concert artists to the city during the past 17 years, under the able direction of Edwyn Hames, conductor.

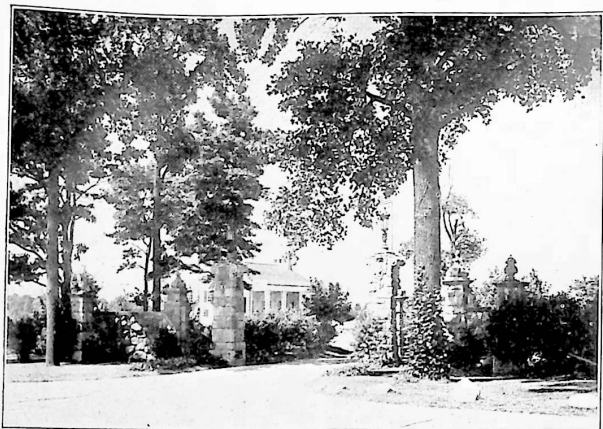

In South Bend there are 41 principal Protestant churches, 15 Roman Catholic, four Jewish, and a number of other churches of miscellaneous denominations.

The city has two municipal golf courses and three private clubs.

South Bend's health rating is considerably above the average American city's; its death rate, 1.5 below the national average. Its hospitals are rated A-1 by the American College of Surgeons.

The city possesses the finest historical museum in the state, the Northern Indiana Historical Society Museum in the old court house building.

It has 34 public parks valued at $2,750,000.

Industry in South Bend

The wide distribution of its manufactured products over the globe gives South Bend its civic distinction as being "world-famed." Chief among these products are automobiles, trucks, airplane engines, agricultural equipment, paints and varnishes, lathes, men's wear, automobile accessories, such as brakes and carburetors; aviation and marine instruments and accessories, artificial bait, toys, sewing machines, miscellaneous wood, metal and paper products, metal furniture, women's dresses, roller and ball bearings, home laundry units, a variety of plastic products, athletic and surgical apparel, and many others.

South Bend assumed an extremely vital place in the Victory program. Its factories turned out huge quantities of materials for arming, clothing and feeding the armies of Democracy. Included in the city's spectacular armament production were army trucks, airplane engines and other aviation products, shells, lathes, gears, machine tools, ball bearings, army shirts, canvas products, and electrical and radio equipment. Other war contributions of its citizens and organizations included civilian defense activities, added aviation facilities, an intensified safety program, emergency social services, changes in the educational program, defense housing and expansion of utilities and transportation facilities.

Obviously, such progress is not accidental. A survey of the South Bend of today—just as a review of the South Bend of yesterday—shows that the same attractive qualities of its civic life, its leadership, its adequate supplies of skilled craftsmen, raw materials and power, its proximity to national markets and its excellent transportation facilities are the ingredients of this progress. These factors in abundance give happy assurance that the South Bend of tomorrow will offer the same opportunities to more industrial development—and continued community growth.

A view ahead shows aviation holding an increasingly important place in the future of this city. South Bend already has attained a high place nationally in the manufacture of airplane engines, parts, accessories and allied products, and is destined to come out of the war-made aviation growth occupying a key spot in this mushrooming industry. The city has unusual advantages for the manufacture of airplanes, accessories and allied products, due to a favorable combination of geography, weather conditions, sources of material and skilled labor. The forward vision of its leaders has taken these factors and, out of them, created conditions favorable to a mighty aviation industry.

Indicative of the importance of South Bend as a hub of industry and commerce, it is the only city of its size in the nation served by three major air lines.

Bendix Field, the St. Joseph County Airport, is an up-to-date, excellent field for all types of flying. It is a ten-minute ride by automobile from the downtown district, and is also served by convenient rail connections. Both its location and its weather record make it ideal for commercial flying operations.

The airport, publicly owned and operated, was named in honor of the late Vincent Bendix, founder of the Bendix Aviation Corp., the home office and main plants of which are located near the airport.

Association of Commerce of South Bend

Springing from the alert civic consciousness of its citizenry, South Bend's Association of Commerce is a strong, central organization devoted to the community welfare and representative of the industrial, commercial and professional elements in the city.

The Association membership and committee structure embraces these three groups. Its policies are determined and its affairs conducted by a board of directors and an executive committee, both of which are composed in equal numbers of these three classifications within the business life of South Bend.

Then, appropriate to this spirit, the Association offices are new, modern and attractive—streamlined to fit the needs of a modern business community.

The primary object of the Association of Commerce is to assure continued progress in the industrial, commercial and civic aspects of the community through sound, progressive planning and activities.

In addition to committee activities, the Association of Commerce operates a Better Business Division, a Safety Council Division, a Manufacturers' Division, a Merchants' Division, and a Civic Promotion Division. The Safety Council is operated in the interests of accident-prevention, directing its major attention to the problem of preventing traffic, industrial, home and other types of accidents, and fire losses; and in cooperating with law-enforcement agencies and state, national and local organizations interested in community safety. The Better Business Division is conducted in the interests of truth in advertising, and protection of the public from unreliable or misleading solicitations and financial schemes. The Merchants' and Manufacturers' groups hold meetings and sponsor activities pertaining to the special problems and interests of their respective businesses. The Civic Promotion Division is seeking to awaken a greater consciousness of the manifold advantages of South Bend. An active Convention Bureau has drawn an increasing list of meetings to the city.

In its membership service, the Association of Commerce offers direct aid to all business elements in the community. Its public service program is large in scope, with such objectives as encouragement of industry, new and old; civic improvements in South Bend; community-advertising; good roads and highways; promoting just taxes and good government; agricultural activities; retail-trade promotion; industrial health and safety, etc.

The Association in its streamlined strength typifies the alert and aggressive spirit of this city. The membership holds weekly luncheon meetings on Monday during the fall and winter months, while various major divisions and the committees schedule sessions as needs arise in their various fields.

South Bend Population Record (Prepared by South Bend Tribune)

South Bend was founded in 1823. For eight years the population was so small that it was not worth taking. Even in 1831 when the first census was taken, only 128 persons lived in South Bend. The population increased constantly and when the first Federal census was taken in 1870, South Bend had a population of 7,206. The last Federal census in 1940 disclosed a population within the corporate limits of 101,268, and within the South Bend metropolitan district, of 147,022, the largest metropolitan district in Indiana except Indianapolis. South Bend, trading center of northern Indiana, has a trading zone population of 359,299 according to the Audit Bureau of Circulation.
